

Dear Friends,

First of all, we want to thank all of those who have sent us emails and made phone calls asking after our wellbeing. We feel loved and cared for by so many. We continue, like many, to walk through the changes which come to us all almost daily! It has been our practice over many years to read Psalm 91 out loud each morning. What a wonderful psalm of assurance, and so relevant for today. We have been able to stay safe and remain in good health but would value your continued prayers for Grace and the constant pain that she lives with in her lower back.

I am glad to say that our local swimming pool is now open, and I continue to exercise three mornings a week, now swimming up to 36 lengths which is over a half a mile. I have connected with a swimming partner who is my pacemaker. I gave him a copy of our book; he was overwhelmed and, when I saw him last, he asked a number of questions and now his wife wants to read it.

We decided that we would republish our book, 'Destiny Calls', and managed to do so with a lot of help from our dear friend Clel. We have updated the text and added some more chapters, expanding on Grace's ministry. The new edition can be purchased on Amazon. We are also in the process of producing an audio version, so watch this space.

We continue to enjoy some great times with our neighbours here at Emmabrook, and our annual BBQ proved to be a great success; the weather stayed fine for the whole time. Almost every day we share either coffee or tea with someone and often share meals or go out to eat somewhere. We are increasingly seeing a community emerge that is learning to share life with each other. We have been challenged to practise 'Acts of Kindness', and this is proving to be such a blessing. When the weather was nice, we sat in a number of gardens for an afternoon cup of tea, sharing life with several families.

We are kept busy with phone calls, emails and people visiting, very much on a one-to-one basis and finding that what we have to share is proving to be profitable. We are learning to listen to His small voice and obey. We now meet as a group of six from the church every two weeks sharing life, praying for one another and having tea together. We hear people saying that they want what was normal; the truth is that it was never normal, at least not by God's standards, The pause button has been pressed; let's use this time to hear His voice and discover what plans He has for us to fulfil our destiny.

Keep walking in the truth of His word and increasingly may we all learn to live from the source that is within us.

Norman and Grace
